WHEELING, JUNE 7, 1894.

Latest Phase of the Strike.

The present willingness of the officers of the United Mine Workers to settle the strike by districts is an abandonment of the plan of campaign, which is now seen to have been entered on without good judgment. There was to be a national strike in the bituminous industry and a national adjustment.

To contribute to this end miners who did not desire to strike and had nothing to gain by the success of a general strike were urged to join the movement; and where they persisted in working they were threatened and in some instances compelled to stop. Miners from Ohio invaded West Virginia on this business.

Another of the last resorts was to prevent the running of trains carrying the product of miners who refused to join the strike. Thousands of tons of West Virginia coal are to-day kept from going to market because the strikers in another state have held up the loaded trains. All this to force a settlement on national lines, and all this without avail. Here is the situation and here is the conclusion as put by the executive board and district presidents of the United Mine Workers:

Whereas, It is evident that a national conference of operators and miners cannot be had for the purpose of effecting a settlement of the present difficulties between them; and whereas, Operators in nearly all the districts have expressed their willingness to meet in their respective districts the representatives of the miners for the purpose of adjusting said difficulties:

Resolved, That we, the members of the national executive board and districts to whom was delegated the power to act for the miners by the last convention of the United Mine Workers of America, declare our willingness to meet the operators of mines in the various districts to attempt, and, if possible, effect a settlement of mining prices.

Resolved, That the conferences of the representatives of the operators and miners of different districts be announced to be held not later than Saturday, June 9, at 10 a. m.

Times and places for the conferences are announced. This change of front on the part of the officers of the United Mine Workers vindicates the wisdom of those West Virginia miners who refused to drop their picks when they had no controversy with their employers and had all to lose and nothing to gain by striking.

Since settlement by districts is now to be sought, the West Virginians who have nothing to settle have reason to congratulate themselves on the course they have pursued.

SENATOR VOORHEES should quit denying things. He is not in the secrets of those who know, and all his denials go wrong.

Lucky Thirteen.

The esteemed old eccentric INTELLIGENCER no doubt observed with regret that No. 13 came in first in yesterday's race. —Register.

When No. 13 wins, does the Register take that to be new support for the silly superstition that thirteen is an unlucky number? If there was ill luck in this instance it fell on all who did not bear the number that was borne to victory.

But never mind that. The INTELLIGENCER is humbly grateful for even this mention of its name in connection with the INTELLIGENCER road race, which has interested everybody but the Register and which everybody but the Register knew to be the INTELLIGENCER road race.

This proves once more that thirteen is not an unlucky number, for it is to this number that the INTELLIGENCER owes the tardy recognition of modest merit.

OMRON knows what is going on at Washington and plumps in a Republican plurality accordingly. There will be more of the same. The tide is rising.

Two Tariff Bills.

When the McKinley bill was under way there was no suspicion and no suggestion of connivance with the sugar refiners, of gambling on the bill or of any other disgraceful thing. The gambling tariff butchers cannot make any thing out of the history of the McKinley bill, nor can they make the country deaf and blind to the revelations in Washington.

Moreover, Republicans do not have to be bribed to grant protection, for protection is a feature of their theory of government. With the Democrats the case is quite otherwise. There is no protection in their theory, and in their platform they denounce protection as unconstitutional in addition to being a fraud. Perhaps they mean that their protection of the sugar trust is a fraud.

A far away misguided brother discovers that "John Sherman may not be able to grasp the economic aspects of the tariff question." If the foolkiller is ready to grasp his club the address of this misguided brother is at his disposal.

The United States Takes Hold.

The government of the United States, acting through its circuit court in Ohio, lays its hand on the men who have tied up three railroads that were carrying West Virginia coal to market and commands them to let go.

The mandate of the court is the voice of this great country commanding obedience to the laws. Back of this command is the whole power of the national government. The United States marshal for Ohio will endeavor to see that the order of the court is obeyed. If he and his deputies prove insufficient to execute the law it will not be long before they will be reinforced by United States troops.

If the men who have tied up the trains do not understand what this means somebody who wishes to save them from harm should explain it to them. They cannot withstand the power of the United States government. They have done what the government itself would not attempt. They have stopped commerce between the states, putting an embargo on the free exchange of products.

This cannot be allowed [and will not be tolerated]. The trains must go forward, carrying such freight as shippers commit to them, and this without any regard to anybody's desire to obstruct and prevent. It is to be hoped that the strikers will henceforth so conduct themselves as to give no cause to use United States troops against them. That is always serious business.

The fourth judicial district of Illinois, which gave Cleveland a plurality of 6,815, has just gone Republican by 3,000. This is a straw of very respectable proportions.

Another Object Lesson.

The Huns and the other rioting foreigners at McKeesport have shown that they know how to make things hot for mill owners and men who want to work. Employers of this kind of labor who took to it because it was cheap have had their eyes pulled wide open. It is to be hoped that they are capable of learning the lesson of this and similar occurrences.

We Americans are not a perfect people; we have our disagreements and some times resort to violence to gain a point, but this in the nature of a family row. When foreigners who will always be foreigners and nothing else take to clubs and knives to prevent American citizens from running their business and earning their wages, the American spirit is aroused.

It would be well if the country were rid of these aliens and if it were to take measures to prevent the coming of more of the same stripe. A stiff head tax on immigrants would do the business with respect to those who are still on the other side awaiting only a good chance to come over.

Is Mr. Wilson the tariff-maker he was thought to be? If so he will have some settled opinions with regard to the sonate treatment of his measure.

The Beef We Eat.

The Chicago Inter Ocean, which has taken an intelligent interest in the matter, commends the new rule adopted at the Chicago stock yards for dealing with lumpy-jaw cattle. It is believed that under this rule cattle infected with what the Inter Ocean well calls a "serious and revolting" disease, will not be used for food in any form. A good deal of Chicago beef comes to Wheeling, and consumers here will be glad to know that the new rule is being honestly enforced, as soon as that assurance can be given.

With the victory of his horse Ladas in the Derby, Lord Roseberry has achieved all he set out to accomplish in life, if his biographers are to be believed. However this may be, the man who has married the richest woman in England, become prime minister and won the Derby and is still young, is a personage to attract attention. The English may be pardoned if they look on Roseberry as in some sense a man of destiny.

PENNOCK, the Oregon idiot, will not break into the United States senate just yet. The legislature is handsomely Republican along with everything else. This year Oregon breaks her record. Carry the news to Washington.

The country has now the senate's idea of a proper sugar tariff. It is very far from the idea of the house. Between the two there is room for a great deal of sugar speculation on inside "tips."

There are increasing reasons to believe that some of the coal operators are playing a double game, trying to throw their fellow operators and the miners at the same time.

By the blunder of his servant Senator McPherson made $1,500 in sugar trust stock. He should discharge that servant and hire him again at advanced wages.

Is it to be a tariff for sugar trust revenue only?

WESTON REPUBLICANS.

The Tariff Club Passes Ringing Resolutions—The Gervander Denounced.

At the meeting of the Weston, W. Va., Protective Tariff Club last week ringing resolutions were adopted, denouncing the pending Democratic tariff bill and the incompetent Democratic administration. The resolutions reaffirm the allegiance of the Weston Republicans to the Republican party; favor a continuance of the present tariff law, the Republican pension policy and conclude as follows:

"We arraign the Democracy of the staff of West Virginia for its unconscionable gerrymander of the state, and we charge upon it an attempt to disfranchise a large number of the voters this county by permitting Webster county to thrust upon us a representative in the house of delegates whom our own people, as evidenced by their voice and vote, would rather have kept at home.

FUNNY SNAPS.

A friend of mine is interested in the baby carriage manufacturing business. He grumbled about trade. "Why," I asked him, "aren't as many babies born now as formerly?" "Yes!" "Well, why isn't your business good?" "More twins. There never was a year when so many twins were born—knocks our single baby carriage business in the head!" —Boston Herald.

He said he wasn't intoxicated so some one proposed that he should walk a chalk line. A line was drawn, he was placed at the end of it, and the referee cried "Go." "Well, why don't you get a move on you?" asked the "ganc." He turned a pair of fishy eyes on his tormentors and inquired, with great impressiveness: "Which one of these lines do you fellows want me to walk?" —Chicago.

He Knows Its Worth.

Dr. M. J. Davis is a prominent physician of Lewis, Cass county, Iowa, and has been actively engaged in the practice of medicine at that place for the past thirty-five years. On the 26th of May, while in Des Moines, on route to Chicago, he was suddenly taken with an attack of cholera. Having sold Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for the past seventeen years, and knowing its reliability, he procured a 25-cent bottle, two doses of which completely cured him. The excitement and change of water and diet incident to traveling often produce a diarrhoea. Every one should procure a bottle of this remedy before leaving home.

A Danford Delegate.

To the Editor of the Intelligencer.

Sir:—I see by the Evening News of June 5 that Colonel Poorman is claiming one delegate from Colerain township, but I think he is mistaken, as Colerain township has three delegates, and they are all for Captain Danford.

Now, why doesn't Poorman, when he knows that Danford has the greater number of delegates from this county, let the man as J. W. Nichols did with him two years ago, and drop out of the race when he sees that he is beaten, so as not to lose the nomination to Belmont county?

Stranded Opera Girls.

If anybody knows anything about any opera company having stranded here lately he may turn a clue to the following, from the Pittsburgh Commercial Gazette of yesterday:

Detective Robinson met two girls on the street yesterday who have been wanted for many months by their mamma. They are Maggie Patterson, of Broad street, East End, and Florence Smith, of 29 South Thirtieth street, both of whom can be found this morning at central station. They have been gone from home for three months, in which time they have been doing duty as chorus girls in a comic opera company which broke up at Wheeling some weeks ago, and where the girls took up their abode until yesterday. They had hardly reached this city until Detective Robinson had them, and as they told him they had no intention of going home, he locked them up until their parents could be seen. Both girls are eighteen years old and pretty, and both wear suits alike of blue. The Patterson girl was in the hands of the police about two years ago, when her mother had her sent to Morgana for incorrigibility.
